

Does It Make Any Difference?

(Teardrops in the Rain)

by S.Seiler © 2002 Prosanity World Cafe

I am hanging on each breath
My thoughts are so unclear Hanging up the phone, alone And wishing you were near Could it really all be over Before we've even made a start?
Why does it need to end this way
In matters of the heart?

And it didn't seem to make any difference to say I cared for you And I know it doesn't matter now -- the things I've shared with you And after all the passion only emptiness remains And hope seems as elusive as finding teardrops in the rain

I wander through the morning
Your words echo in my ears Stumbling onward through each day
All feeling disappears
I am deafened by the silence
And by those words still left unsaid
With everything I should have done Replaying in my head

Please tell me that it makes a difference to say I care for you Please tell me that it matters yet --
the things I've shared with you And after all the sadness it's the hope that still remains That together, we'll find shelter from falling teardrops in the rain