

Man Seeking Woman for Relationship

by S.Seiler © 2003 Prosanity World Cafe

SWM. Turning 33. Brown Hair. Brown Eyes. 5'11", 160 lbs. Has a good job, nice teeth, all of his hair and no felony convictions. Seeks partner with similar interests and qualities which may include, but should not be limited to, the following items:

Currently not married, engaged or involved. People sometimes accuse me of being old fashioned in my thinking.

Beautiful. They say that Beauty is Truth, that Truth is Wisdom, and that real Wisdom can only come with age. However, those women who are so Beautiful that they can recall firsthand the sinking of the Titanic need not apply.

Committed. However, that should not be taken to mean "institutionalized."

Responsible. However, that should not be taken to mean "being held responsible."

A woman who is always chaste. A woman who isn't always chased. In this day and age, it is no wonder that I am still alone.

A woman that didn't used to be (and that is not currently) a man. I think that this one goes without saying.

No baggage. The more baggage that a person carries, the harder it is to get anywhere in life. This is especially true at airports and bus terminals.

A pretty name. Something like "Jeri Ryan", "Gwyneth Paltrow" or "Rene Zellwegger ... Zelweiger ... Zelwager" would be nice. If a man is going to dream, he may as well dream large.

An easier name to spell than "Rene Zellwegger".

Respect for her body. A woman's body is the most important possession that she will ever have. It should not be treated poorly, nor given over to those that might use it irresponsibly for nothing more than their own selfish wants.

Respect for the bodies of others.

No excessive body or facial hair. If this is a problem, please wax.

A sense of humor. Sometimes in life it is the only thing that we are allowed to keep.

Intelligence.

Strength.

The ability to sing from her heart.

Spiritual. Please note that magic crystals, ouija boards and witchcraft will be considered turn-offs.

A woman that will not permit herself to look too bad, or that tries too hard to look good. Face it, by the time that we reach seventy, we all pretty much look the same anyway.

One that drinks coffee, but does not smoke. I myself have been known to smoke from time to time and would not want to be close to a woman that smells as badly as I do.

No sense of smell.

Natural. Realize that silicone is no substitute for, and alone cannot result in, a lasting positive self image.

And finally, true love. That is, a love that can be measured only by amount that she is loved by others.

Any woman matching the above profile should feel free to contact me, care of this web site.

On second thought, don't even bother. Any woman that could match the above profile would intimidate me far too greatly, and I already know that it could never work out between us. To be perfectly honest, I don't even need the stress.

However, if your name happens to be "Jeri Ryan" or "Gwyneth Paltrow", please feel free to try just the same.

I would even consider "Rene Zellwegger", but you would first have to change your name.
